KEYNOTE SPEAKER

If we want a vibrant and strong Waukesha County, it is imperative that our greatest assets, our people, are vibrant and strong as well.

To achieve this, we have to disrupt our current approaches in the way we engage all our neighbors to live their lives to their fullest potential. It will take the convergence of all sectors in our communities working together toward common and measureable goals.

As an individual, business, or organization that wants to see Waukesha County continue to be a great place to work, live, and raise a family, we invite you to join Waukesha resident Susan Dreyfus, president and CEO of the Alliance for Strong Families and Communities, as she discusses with us how communities across America are coming together to address complex issues and improve the vitality of their communities.

Susan will address major trends influencing this work and provide us a pathway for realizing our vision.

We look forward to your active participation in joining this critical community conversation.

Remarks by Attorney General Brad Schimel and Waukesha County Executive Paul Farrow.
