

Erin Frederick serves as program director for the Zilber Family Foundation in Milwaukee where she works closely with the executive director to design and implement the Foundation's grantmaking programs focused on improving neighborhood conditions and increasing residents' access to social and economic opportunities. Erin has been with the Foundation since 2010, serving in the roles of program officer and senior program officer before assuming the role of program director in 2018. She has primary responsibility for grants management and internal operations. During her time at the Foundation, she has developed the Foundation's capacity building strategy and grantmaking portfolio to include organizational effectiveness and leadership development opportunities for grantee partners.

Prior to joining the Zilber Family Foundation in 2010, Erin served as the director of a program that funded community-academic partnership projects to improve public health in Wisconsin. Erin also held leadership positions in communications and fund development at various nonprofit organizations in Milwaukee.

Erin has a BA in Communications and Spanish from Miami University and a MS in Nonprofit Management and Leadership from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. She serves on the board of Wisconsin Philanthropy Network, Wisconsin's regional association of grantmakers.
